SIR W. S. HARRIS'S LIGHTNING CONDUCTORS.—The public attention, as well as that of Church Building Committees, is respectfully invited to the numerous cases of shocking and still destructive effects of the heavy thunder-storms which have prevailed. THOS. W. GRAY, 72, King William-street, City, London, respectfully announces that he is the only person now holding Sir W. Harris's patent for the Lightning Conductor, and who will put them up on the most scientific principles, and under the personal superintendence of Sir William himself. The peculiar form and adaptation of these Conductors is such as to satisfy every one of any amount of absolute fixity, so essential in every architectural treatment of sum, both in the new and ancient parts on which they are to be fixed; and to show the immense superiority they possess over every other system, the Royal Cornhill Model of the Great Exhibition was awarded the Prize.

Mr. T. W. GRAY will be happy to supply any information that may be desired, and to furnish estimates of the cost for fixing the Conductors.

CHURCH BELLS of the highest quality of tone and finish, as in past 3½. Peals of bells mounted and represented. House bells, with tuned edges and wrought-iron dampers, at 20s. per lb. Quite at unprecedentedly reduced prices.—Apply to BARRETT and GEORGE, Bell-gaggle Foundry, Skinner-street, London.

TO ARCHITECTS.—Frequent complaints having been made by ARCHITECTS and others of the failure of certain works supposed to have been done by this Company, that which in fact were executed with spurious asphalte, a trial of all works executed with the genuine SEYSSEL ASPHALTE is hereby solicited. Offices, 21, Threadneedle-street, City, London, where information may be had on the subject of the Company's Asphalte, and on its many other uses, if new terms have been used, pre-war, and other worthless and offensive compositions have been introduced.

J. FARRELL, Secretary.

SEYSSEL ASPHALTE WORKS Pimlico, London.

ESTABLISHED 1838.

N.B. The exclusive supply of Asphalte from the Mines of Pyrimont Seyssel being surrendered to this Company, the Directors particularly recommend Architects, Builders, and others after this purpose of observing the use of the genuine article to prevent the fraud and imposition of SEYSSEL ASPHALTE, CLARIDGE'S PATENT.

1862.

FIRE-PROOF CONSTRUCTION.—FOX and BARRETT'S PATENT.—The great importance of fire-proof construction is shown by the recently published returns of fires in London, during the past year, by which it appears that there is a considerable increase as compared with former years, the total number of fires during 1861, of the average of three years.

This result clearly shows that the system of fire-proof construction made exclusively, THAT BY BUILDING IN WHICH TIMBER JOISTS ARE USED IS PRACTICALLY SECURE FROM THE DANGER OF FIRE; and when to this fact it is added that timber is also liable to dry-rot and the ravages of insects and vermin, the subject is of so serious a nature as to call for the most earnest consideration of all those who are about to build, or who have buildings already erected.

Fox, Barrett, and Co.'s fire-proof floors are not open to any of these objections, for, being entirely composed of iron and concrete, they are not subject to dry-rot, vermin, or fire, and are therefore perfectly secure.

Fox, Barrett, and Co. have erected extensive works in London, on this system, in the new GUARDS' BARRACKS, an extensive range of fire-proof warehouses for Messrs. Lewis and Allenby, Regent-street, and in many of the principal WAREHOUSES, WORKSHOPS, and PRIVATE DWELLINGS in London, Liverpool, Manchester, and other towns.

A detailed description of the system, estimates, and all further information, may be obtained on application to the Engineer of the works,

Mr. BARRETT, late Fox and Barrett, 31, York-buildings, Adelphi, where others from most of the buildings erected on this principle, and where specimens of the rolled iron joists may be seen.
